

John Phoenix Turnabout Flood

Story: John Phoenix Turnabout Flood

Storylink: <https://www.fanfiction.net/s/13890638/1/>

Category: Phoenix Wright: Ace Attorney

Genre: Adventure

Author: TheHoboSeven

Authorlink: <https://www.fanfiction.net/u/14074999/>

Last updated: 05/28/2021

Words: 910

Rating: T

Status: Complete

Content: Chapter 1 to 1 of 1 chapters

Source: FanFiction.net

Summary: A disaster has hit Los Angeles Los Angeles has been drowned in the biggest flood in history Will the hero of the state John Phoenix be able to survive this flood and stop the man behind it whoever he is?

*Chapter 1*: John Phoenix Turnabout Flood

Turnabout Flood by HoboSeven

John Phoenix was sitting at his computer one day in his green chair in the white office that smelled like Uncle Phoenix. He was on the internet instead of working. He was looking around at the new reddit posts. Suddenly the internet shut off and John Phoenix was very confused. He looked at the power but everything was plugged in. That's when the lights turned off.

"What's going on?" said John Phoenix as he opened the window and looked outside. "Oh holy shit!" shouted his foul-mouthed Uncle Phoenix as water splashed in his face and a sea of water swam past his office eating everything on the road. John Phoenix has fought many criminals in the past but this was true evil. He grabbed his raincoat and umbrella to go to fight this evil but when he opened the door water came in. This would be harder than he thought. He closed the door before more water could get in and grabbed some paper cardboard machines anything he could get his hands on and made a giant boat.

He threw the boat out the window and jumped into it and set sail. As he sailed through the ocean he picked up any unfortunate victims like the hero that he is. He brought the boat to criminal affairs which was on raised ground. This is because criminal affairs are prepared for natural disasters like these so they have a lever that raises the building into the sky to avoid floods.

John Phoenix gave the victims shelter from the flood and he sat down in front of the big green scruffy detective Detective Gumshoe. Gumshoe scratched the back of his head as he turned and looked at John Phoenix to give him the information he knew.

"Well pal we did not expect this," said Gumshoe. "The flood came out of nowhere with no way to predict it. There weren't any vibrations in the sea so it's not caused by an earthquake. If you don't believe me Mr. Sente is over there and he is still alive."

John Phoenix saw the man in the blue suit and a tie come to John Phoenix. His name was Storm Sente. He was a prosecutor Argus Hakan and John Phoenix has fought him in court in the past. He's very skilled and not to be underestimated. One of his many abilities is concatenation which he used in this crime too.

"John Phoenix I have used logic and because the geography people couldn't have predicted this I believe this may not be water we are dealing with here," said Storm Sente slowly so John Phoenix could understand his conclusion. But John Phoenix was smart. If it wasn't water then there was only one thing it could be. "I believe Los Angeles is being flooded not by the sea but by bad fanfictions."

This reveal blew John Phoenix out of his seat and into the sea. The criminal was undoubtedly that evil mastermind Dylan Fitcher. However Gumshoe scrubbed and told him Dylan was in a coma because prison wasn't enough to contain a dastardly villain like him so he can't be responsible and the same to Ooishi so it couldn't have been him either. Fortunately the Chief of Police came and told them that mysterious activity had been detected in Hazakura.

John Phoenix, Storm, and Gumshoe got in the police helicopter and drove it to Hazakura. There was a guard outside who was asleep so they grabbed him and put him in a box and buried him under 6 feet of snow so he couldn't alert the villain. They couldn't be certain if he worked for the villain or was just a Hazakura guard but they can never be too careful on a secret mission. They left the man knocking the box and screaming for help and went into the temple.

Inside they saw a wizard waving his magic pencil around which caused pages and books flying everywhere.

"That John Phoenix!" said Storm in shock and reveal. "Is the evil writer Takeshi Yamazaki. He is infamous for being sick in the head!"

Storm spoke too loudly so Yamazaki heard him and he turned and pointed with his pencil and a door appeared in front of them and it was locked. Fortunately Gumshoe brought his seven secret weapons and secret weapon 7 was a key which they used to get past the door. Shocked that they had a weapon to counter his magic Yamazaki tried to run before seeing there was nothing under him but waterous fanfiction.

Storm and Gumshoe surrounded him and attacked. They threw him around in a cloud of dust until both of them were on the floor with bandages all over them and Yamazaki laughed at their patheticness and ran and stole their helicopter so John Phoenix woke his allies up and the three lawyers got in the boat. Storm drove, John Phoenix got the cannon and Gumshoe ate instant noodles.

They swam the boat over waves and flowing and John Phoenix cannoned the helicopter down and one of the cannonballs blasted a dam that blew up allowing the fanfics to escape ending the flood However this did not happen before Takeshi Yamazaki fell into the fanfics and drowned in them

After the fanfics flowed away the death of their creator slowly made the fanfics disappear from existence and everyone was so happy to recover from that terrorist disaster

The End