Chapter 1*: Dylan Fitchar Escapes From Heaven!

The bells of the clock tower rang out across heaven as it struck 11:00. Dylan Fitchar covered his ears because he hated the sound of the bells of heaven. He hated them because hearing them meant he was in heaven, meaning he was dead. Even worse, he wasn't in hell where all the cool guys were. He was sent to heaven because God wasn't around any more so there was no one to damn him for his impressive list of sins.

The reason Dylan hated heaven was because it was illegal to commit crimes. In hell you can do that all you want, and he could even do it a lot on earth too, so he decided to escape. He went to the gate but Saint Peter was guarding it.

Dylan hatched a plan to get out.

Ten minutes later, Dylan walked up to Saint Peter.

"How can I help you?" said Saint Peter.

"Die!"

Dylan punched Saint Peter in the face.

"OUCH!" shouted Saint Peter. He looked up and Dylan Fitchar ran away. Saint Peter stood up and pointed at the fleeing man. "PUNISH HIM!"

Saint Peter ran after Dylan and Saint John did too. Dylan hobbled his little legs as fast as he could down the streets of heaven and everyone pointed and laughed at him.

"Wow look at that fat fuck run," said one of the angels which made Dylan cry but he ignored them and after two minutes of running he finally got to the house at the end of the street and shut the door behind him.

Saint John smacked his hand on the door and demanded Dylan come out immediately. He waited ten seconds but Dylan didn't obey so he and Saint Peter broke the door down. Inside the house was a single empty room. There was no furniture, no other doors or windows, and no Dylan Fitchar!

"We must get him back at all costs," said Saint Peter. "Saint John, where is your portal gun?"

"I don't have it," said Saint John.

Saint Peter sighed and took out his own portal gun, which all saints are issued. He fired the gun and created a portal to Earth in the middle of the room. He went through the portal and then, exactly five minutes later, it disappeared.

There was a knock on the door to the Phoenix & Co. Law Offices and Phoenix Wright opened it.

"Hiya! I'm the repairman here to fix your pipes!" said the repairman.

"Oh, come on in," said Phoenix and he allowed the repairman in.

Just then, a portal appeared in the office and Saint Peter appeared!

"John Phoenix! Where are you, John Phoenix?! Dylan Fitchar has disappeared!" he said.

"What!" John Phoenix stopped eating his breakfast.

Saint Peter explained the situation to John Phoenix and when he was done, he created a new portal to heaven.

John Phoenix and Saint Peter went to heaven and John Phoenix examined the house Dylan disappeared in.

"I know exactly what happened!" said John Phoenix. "Dylan escaped from this house... with a portal!"

"Wait, how?" said Saint John. "Portals only disappear after five minutes, we didn't wait for him to come out that long."

"That's because Dylan actually made the portal five minutes in advance! He timed everything so that the portal would disappear just after he made it here! He went through it, then it disappeared before you came in! And he used Saint John's portal gun to do it!"

"Oh, so that's why I can't find it anywhere!" said Saint John. "Wait, so where is Dylan now?"

"He couldn't have gone far. In fact, I have a good idea of exactly where he is!" said John Phoenix. He turned and ran back to the portal to his office, which was still there because he solved the case so fast. He ran at the repairman who was just about to take his uncle hostage and shoved him to the ground.

"He's here! The repairman is actually you, Dylan Fitchar!"

Dylan Fitchar ran away.
