Summary: Dylan Fitchar has a new ally that John Phoenix must defeat!

Chapter 1*: The Ally of Dylan Fitchar

It was a peaceful day in the Buckingham Palace.

But then that peace came to an end when the doors to the throne room burst open and John Phoenix ran down the stairs in an epic sword fight with Dylan Fitchar!

"Dylan! How did you know I was in London?" shouted John Phoenix.

"Cause I followed you in my helicopter!" said Dylan.

Dylan swung his sword at John Phoenix who dodged and then jumped on the sword and swiped at Dylan's face! Dylan fell backwards and thought he was about to die again, but instead of hitting the floor, his back pressed against something soft.

"Having fun with your friends, Durano?" said the voice of an old man.

Dylan stiffened and gritted his teeth.

"No... it can't be you. Not now!" Dylan spun around to face the mystery person. This was a man who's rotundness put even Dylan's to shame. He was a gray haired old man with a black shirt and red suspenders holding up his bright yellow pants.

The older man looked at John Phoenix, who was watching them with a bored expression.

"Good evening! I am Kuraudo Ooishi, I am a Japanese police detective from Hinamizawa and the father of this young rascal," Ooishi patted Dylan on the back. Then he walked towards John Phoenix, punching his fist in his hand. "And I am here today to show you why cops are bastards!"

As he approached, John Phoenix noticed there was a whole crowd of people behind him. But they were not other people - they were all perfect clones of the man in front of him. It was an army of Kuraudo Ooishis, and they were all against John Phoenix. It was as if Ooishi made thousands of alt accounts on a website to make it look like more people were on his side than there actually were.

Before any violence could ensue, a knife appeared in the original Ooishi's knee and he fell over.

"Master, run!" said Genji. He scooped John Phoenix up and ran out of the Buckingham Palace.

"Genji! Why did you make me flee like a coward!" shouted John Phoenix.

"I am sorry, Master, but the Ooishi clan is to be feared by all, even you," said Genji.

"But Dylan's part of the Ooishi clan and I don't fear him."

"He's an exception because he's weak."

Chapter 2*: Kuraudo Ooishi Takes Over Scotland Yard!

Inspector Chelmey was sitting at his desk sipping his tea while he was watching the news on TV. He was waiting for someone to commit a crime so he could inspect it since that's his job.

At that moment, the door swung open and a fat man walked in.

"Na ha ha ha! Hello, hello!" said Ooishi. "I'm here to commit crimes!"

Ooishi kicked Chelmey out the window and he crashed into the ground 500 miles away! He looked back at Scotland Yard, but it wasn't Scotland Yard any more. It was Ooishi Yard, the police department of the Kuraudo Ooishis!

"What the dickens just happened?!" shouted Chelmey.

John Phoenix walked by and Chelmey rushed to get his attention.

"John Phoenix you gotta help me save the police force!"

John Phoenix yawned. John Phoenix didn't care. But then a horde of Kuraudo Ooishis stormed over and surrounded them!

"We have you surrounded!" they shouted.

"Why don't you come into my car, little boy," smirked one of the Ooishis. "The air conditioning's on!"

John Phoenix ran away.

Chapter 3*: John Phoenix Climbs A Hill

John Phoenix knew he had to do something about the Ooishi Yard or else he'd get arrested for being Dylan's nemesis. But to do so, he first had to get to Scotland Yard. He walked down the streets of London until he got to where the Yard used to be, but it was gone! That's not to say as in "it's Ooishi Yard now," the Ooishi Yard wasn't there either, it was moved!

John Phoenix did not know where Ooishi Yard went. John Phoenix had to figure out where Ooishi Yard went. In order to do so, he needed a clear vantage point over the entire country. That's when he noticed there was a tall hill next to where the Yard was so he decided to use that.

He made it to the foot of the hill and started climbing.

"You can do it, John Phoenix!" shouted Storm Sente.

"Climb that hill!" shouted Argus Hakan.

"AH HA HA HA HA HA HA HA!" laughed Dylan who was watching from a distance.

"You'll never climb that hill, John Phoenix!" shouted Ooishi.

John Phoenix ignored the taunting by the villains and listened only to the words of encouragement from his friends, and with the power of that encouragement fueling him, he finally made it to the top!

John Phoenix looked out over London, but he couldn't see the Ooishi Yard, so he looked further and he finally spot it.

Scotland Yard was in Scotland!

Chapter 4*: John Phoenix Flies

John Phoenix watched the Ooishi Yard, now in Scotland, from the hill he was on. It was surrounded by heavily armed Ooishi's that would surely overpower even him if he tried to fight them head-on. Therefore, he reasoned that he should go around them. However, they surrounded the entire perimeter of the Yard, so there was no getting around them on one axis. Therefore, John Phoenix would have to go around them on another axis, in other words, he had to go under them!

John Phoenix stuck a shovel into the ground but it was too hard. In that case, he had to go over them!

Conveniently, at that moment, he spot a hot air balloon in the sky. John Phoenix threw a rock at it to get the person's attention!

The guy in the balloon cried out and tried to flee!

"Don't be scared, I'm John Phoenix!" shouted John Phoenix.

"OHHHHH!" said the guy. He lowered the balloon and John Phoenix went inside.

"Hiii!" said Beedle, the owner of the shop. "Welcome to Beedle's Air Shop, what can I get you?"

"One hot air balloon, please."

"WOW!" said Beedle. "That'll be a hundred rupees!"

"Forget about your rubies. I saved Hyrule, I deserve it for free."

"You saved my hometown?" said Beedle.

"Yes."

"THAAAAANK YOU!" said Beedle. He gave John Phoenix the balloon in gratitude for murdering Ganondorf.

And so, John Phoenix was now the legal owner of the hot air balloon.

Chapter 5*: John Phoenix Ace Shopkeeper

John Phoenix was flying the air shop to the Ooishi Yard, when suddenly he heard a whistle from below.

"Hiii!" said Beedle despite John Phoenix being the only person close enough to hear him, and he lowered the ladder.

"What do you think you are DOING, Beedle?!" shouted John Phoenix.

"Um, valued balloon owner, this is still a shop so I thought you might want to actually run that."

"No. I bought the balloon just to fly. But being a shopkeeper sounds fun. Okay Beedle. I will run the shop but just for this one customer."

A man wearing a yellow shirt and a cow tie climbed up to the shop.

"Hi!" said the man.

John Phoenix squinted. The man's face was nothing impressionable, but there was something very familiar about that outfit of his.

"I am Milke Benedict, I want a spatula."

"Get your own one, we're closed," said John Phoenix.

"It seems you misunderstood me," said Milke, and he pulled out a gun and pointed it at John Phoenix. "The spatula, son."

John Phoenix took a glance to where the spatulas were stored, but there were no spatulas, but there was a person!

"Herlock Sholmes!" John Phoenix said to the man pretending to be a spatula, but he was not surprised because he saw him there earlier and didn't question it.

"Mr. Milke Benedict, you are a man whose secrets can be milked like a cow, much like your tie," said Sholmes.

"Don't go grabbing my cock, old man," said Milke.

"Such intense action is not necessary. I did a fingerprint test on your shirt just now and it is covered in Dylan Fitchar's fingerprints, much like if he were shaking you. You, Mr. Benedict... are a victim of Dylan Fitchar!"

"HOLD IT, MR. SHOLMES!" said John Phoenix and he danced in between them. "Common sense says that you, the man pointing a gun at me, are his minion!"

"AH, YOU GOT ME!" cried Milke.

Just then a helicopter appeared outside.

"Benjamin Mendax, get in here!" said Dylan from the Dylancopter and Milke, whose real name was Benjamin Mendax, jumped from the balloon and into the Dylancopter!

Dylan Fitchar flew away!

Chapter 6*: John Phoenix Fights the Ooishis

John Phoenix's Air Shop closed in on the Ooishi Yard, the police department consisting of nobody but Kuraudo Ooishis, and their son Dylan. John Phoenix leaned out the door, ready to jump into battle.

"Wait, Master Phoenix!" said Sholmes. "What you need more than anything is a weapon that can fight them. And identifying this weapon is quite easy."

"I know," said John Phoenix. "It is the spatula. We know this because their mercenary tried to take it off our hands. This is because they fear it. Thank you, Mr. Sholmes."

John Phoenix then jumped out and into the more corrupt than usual police department! A herd of angry Ooishis ran at John Phoenix to try and disarm him but John Phoenix was prepared for them. He used the spatula to cook up tasty burgers and served them up to the Ooishis. They all took the bait and dug in.

"What do you gluttonous buffoons think you're doing?!" shouted Dylan from the chief's office.

While the Ooishis were distracted, John Phoenix set a big bomb in the middle of the place and it got FemConned!

Storm Sente and Argus Hakan watched the explosion from the hill John Phoenix climbed earlier.

"Hey, what's the big idea?! How are the police supposed to go back to work with the Yard blown up?!" shouted Chelmev, but he was ignored.

"Oh no, John Phoenix must've died in that blast!" cried Storm.

"OBJECTION!" shouted Argus. "That's not true, my friend Storm Sente! John Phoenix is alive and this is how that is possible! First, John Phoenix left the balloon. But before he did that, he tied a wire to a piece of furniture in the shop! He would have gotten this wire from the shop's stock. Then he fought the Ooishis. Once he set the bomb, he tugged on the wire and it quickly pulled him back into the balloon and away from the explosion! John Phoenix DID NOT DIE!"

"Correct," said John Phoenix. The hot air balloon landed and John Phoenix walked out.

John Phoenix was alive, the Ooishis were stopped and the police force of London had been abolished!

The End.
