Summary: John Phoenix has to stop the spreading of the deadly Dylanvirus!

Chapter 1*: Turnabout Calamity

One morning, John Phoenix woke up and turned on the news.

"Dylanvirus Outbreak in London! Everyone quarantine yourselves or we're all gonna die!" said the TV.

"How terrible," said John Phoenix. "I love working because I am a hero who saves people and it's so easy but I cannot put myself and others at risk, so I shall not go to work."

"By the way, people in America" said the news. "All people to go to work immediately, even the unemployed."

"What" said Phoenix Wright, John Phoenix's uncle. "That's not right, let's stay at home because we'll make everyone sick."

"UNCLE PHOENIX YOU IDIOT!" shouted John Phoenix and then he pulled a listening device out from under the cushion.

"Who was listening in on us," said Phoenix but his question was answered by the pounding on the front door.

"Phoenix Wright and his nephew John Phoenix, come out with your hands in the air!" shouted Detective Fulbright.

"No!" said Phoenix.

"RESISTING ARREST! YOU'RE GOING TO JAIL! INJUSTICE WE TRUUUUUUST" shouted Bobby, banging on the door.

Phoenix was about to go to the door like the imbecile that he was, but John Phoenix grabbed him and opened the window.

"John Phoenix no! We can't run away, that's illegal" said Phoenix.

"It is also illegal to not go to work today but that doesn't make it right," said John Phoenix.

"You are right," said Phoenix. He was impressed at John Phoenix's ability to differentiate between law and morality.

They jumped out the window and Fulbright broke the door down.

"NO! Who could have foreseen this?" yelled Fulbright and he took out his phone.

"Boss, they're on the run!"

John Phoenix and Phoenix left the alleyway only to be swarmed by police cars.

Then the cars made way for a special car that drove through them and then a very unimportant looking man stepped out.

"Phoenix Wright, we have you surrounded, give up and go to work," said the president of the United States, Donald Trump.

Blind man that he was, he did not notice that Phoenix and John Phoenix had escaped! Because you see, the police formed an unbreakable barrier that not even John Phoenix could break, but that was broken when Donald Trump drove in, because they had to make room for him. In that moment, John Phoenix took that chance to get him and Phoenix away.

"Fuck, where did they go?" yelled Trump. "We must catch them, they can not take the month off because of the fake virus!"

"They went that way," said a man in a disguise, pointing down the street.

"OKAY BOYS, GET PHOENIX WRIGHT!" shouted Trump and they drove down the road.

The man in the disguise then took off his coat revealing it was John Phoenix and Phoenix Wright stacked on each other.

"That was a good idea to stand up to him so he'd let his guard down," said Phoenix.

They set the water sprinkler on the roof and sprayed it into the skies.

"No, stop him!" shouted Trump, but it was too late, Hyde fluid rained around the world and it cured everyone.

The next day, John Phoenix went to work and turned on the news. News had reached the world of how Donald Trump manufactured Dylanvirus, though it remained unclear who helped him create it. It would likely remain unclear, too, because it turned out there was one part of the world the rain could not reach from the top of the White House and that was inside the White House itself. Donald Trump had died to Dylanvirus and everyone celebrated.

The End.
