Summary: Pete decides to try a different job and of course he picks lawyer, can John Phoenix help him succeed?

Chapter 1*: John Phoenix Helps Pete Become A Lawyer

Peter Murray (friends call him Pete) (I am Pete's friend so I call him that too) was at sea ferrying people around the islands next to London. But he was curious about something. He was a man of the sea, but he always wondered what the life of a man of the land was like. So he decided to find out.

Pete took his boat to America and got out next to John Phoenix's office.

"Hi Pete what're you doing here?" said John Phoenix.

"I fancy tryin' out your job Johnny," said Pete.

"Okay."

So John Phoenix gave Pete a book called How To Be A Lawyer. Pete skimmed it real quick but it was pretty boring and also confusing and he kept raising his eyebrows at all these funny words.

"The evidence com...pels the judge to pass a verdict? Why not just say "makes"? Stupid frilly upper class bums," Pete muttered.

Just as he was halfway through reading, the phone rang.

"Should I get that," said Pete.

"No," said John Phoenix. "Because today, you are the lawyer, so I shall be your receptionist."

John Phoenix was a friend of Pete.

So John Phoenix answered the phone.

"JOHN PHOENIX HELP ME I'VE BEEN ARRESTED!" said Uncle Phoenix.

"Good," said John Phoenix. "Pete will defend you."

"WHAT-" John Phoenix hung up.

"Pete I've got a job for you."

John Phoenix took Pete to defend his uncle. Pete had failed to study but John Phoenix had a gut feeling he could do it. Uncle Phoenix was liable to die if Pete failed but he was willing to make such a sacrifice to help his friend Pete.

"Court's in session," said the judge. "I say John Phoenix are you not defending today?"

"No Pete is."

"Ahhhh okay!"

Edgeworth the prosecutor called his witness.

"Hi I'm Dylan Fitchar, my occupation is innocent person," said Dylan Fitchar.

===WITNESS TESTIMONY===

"Phoenix Wright killed the victim."

"OBJECTION!" shouted Pete.

"What now?" said Dylan.

"Where's yer proof that ol' Feeno killed the victim?" said Pete.

"I-I don't have any!"

"Well there ya have it! Evidence is everything in court, fella!"

"But, but, but of course!" said the judge. "That's the golden rule of the courtroom!"

Pete was proud of himself, and he deserved to be! He remembered that golden rule from his studies.

"NO WAIT!" cried Dylan.

"It's no use Dylan," said John Phoenix. "When you found out Pete became the lawyer of my office you thought this was your chance to frame my uncle and get away with murder, but you underestimated him. Peter Murray is much brighter and more talented than he looks!"

"Daw thanks John Phoenix," Pete blushed.

"NOOOO I'LL GET YOU FOR THIS PETER!" Dylan Fitchar ran away.

Phoenix Wright was declared not guilty and the trial ended.

"Thanks Pete," said Phoenix.

"Da-ha-ha-ha no prob!" said Pete. "But y'know, fella, I think I've had enough of this lawyer business, I'm goin' back to me boat."

"Okay Pete safe travels!" said John Phoenix.

Pete's life at sea resumed once more.
