Summary: John Phoenix and his friend Pete go to the distant past and have to get back to America. Will they succeed or will the colonialists beat them to it?

*Chapter 1*: John Phoenix and Pete Discover America

John Phoenix was hanging out with Pete in the Phoenix & Co. Law Offices in the present.

"Blimey John Phoenix this is all good fun but I'm getting mighty homesick so I am," said Pete.

"Okay Pete, I'll bring you to the past which is where your home is," said John Phoenix. He started focusing his psychic powers to travel to the past with Pete, however he was using them too well. When he opened his eyes, he had time traveled so far they were in 1800.

"Home sweet home," said Pete who did not notice and he jumped into a boat.

"Wait Pete that's not yours," said John Phoenix and he followed Pete on board but then the boat set sail!

A bit guy who looked like Pete came on deck.

"Arr, landlubbers, make 'em walk the plank I say!" said the man who looked like Pete.

"Grandpappy is that you?" said Pete.

"Yes!" said the captain, whose name was Petenosuke Murray.

So Petenosuke went on a voyage of discovery with his grandson Pete and John Phoenix.

"Arr there does not seem to be any land 'ere," said Petenosuke.

"Wait a second," said John Phoenix. "This is roughly where America is!"

So Pete got out his telescope and looked harder.

Then he saw land!

"Look, grandpappy, it's America!"

"Bloomin' heck, I didn't even notice!" said Petenosuke.

The boat docked at America and they got out.

"I shall name this place America after what me grandson called it!"

"Aw thanks Grandpappy! Dahahaha!"

"Dahahaha!" Pete and Petenosuke laughed together.

"SIT THE FUCK DOWN!" said someone on another boat. It was Christopher Columbus who was also here to discover America. "This is not America this is Columbia, guards arrest these trespassers!"

So Columbus' guards got off the boat to fight John Phoenix and the Murrays but they were all defeated by John Phoenix's psychic powers and the Murrays' immense strength so they ran away into the forest.

"Land's sake those guys are cowards," said Columbus.

But then they came back!

"Captain we found people!"

"What!" said Columbus. "Enslave them!"

"OBJECTION DO NOT!" shouted John Phoenix the natives' defense attorney.

"Why not?" said Columbus.

"Well ya can't do nothin' to enslave them cause 'cause your boyos are all dead!" said Petenosuke.

"What!" said Columbus and he looked back at his guards who were all now dead with slashes across their chests!

"When ya see a dead body ya scream for help at the top o' your lungs," Petenosuke said proudly (and Pete was impressed).

"WHO DID THAT!"

"It was YOU!" said John Phoenix, and he pulled Columbus' sword out of its sheath and it was covered in blood! It was actually John Phoenix who killed the guards while Columbus was distracted by Pete.

"Y-You can't arrest me!" said Columbus.

"Guess again, fella!" said Petenosuke. "When ya witness a murder, ya do yer civic duty and report the mug to the police!"

Petenosuke arrested Columbus and took him to the police.

However the police didn't want to arrest him because they were corrupt so John Phoenix and Pete took Columbus to their own time where he was sent to jail and executed, and so John Phoenix and Pete had created a bright happy future for the timeline they had just created in 1800 by defeating Columbus and America had been discovered by the respectable ancestor of Peter Murray, Petenosuke!

The End!
